GRADUATION EXERCISES OF THE 1910 CLASS OF THE FREE ACADEMY.

Slater Hall Filled With Large Number of Relatives and Friends—Essays and Oration Given in Most Commendable Manner, Bringing Forth Much Applause —Winners of Prizes and Medals Announced—President Noyes Presents Class Gift—Ivy Oration by Herman Mueller—Class Supper and Dance.

Very evident is it that it takes more than heat to keep the parents and friends of the Free Academy pupils away from the graduation, as Slater hall was filled to overflowing Tuesday afternoon when the class of 1910, numbering sixty, completed its four years' course there. It was necessary to use the annex to accommodate the large number. The programs were finely carried out and the exercises were completed in shorter time than in previous years, the ivy oration being completed and the ivy planted before 6 o'clock.

Much interest was manifested throughout the entire programme and each participant was accorded due applause for his effort. The hall was prettily decorated with ferns which were placed across the front of the platform, while over the platform in letters of orange on a black background was the class motto: Spectemur Agendo (Let Us Be Seen by Our Deeds). The ushers were Frank Winters Lovell, James Patrick Murray, Thomas Francis Shea, Lowell Randall Stark, Bertram Benesett Bailey, Frederic Pettigrew Church, William Endersley Perry, Theodore Adams Robinson.

Seated on the platform with Principal Tirrell were the past four years' Pratt and Waterman R. Burnham, Costello Lippitt, John C. Averill, Frank L.
Woodard, Jonathan Trumbull and Francis J. Leavens of the trustees. The Academy Musical club was seated at the back part of the platform, remaining there throughout the exercises.
Their part in the programme was a pleasing feature and they were directed as usual by Eugene Waltham.

Following the invocation by Rev.
Lowell Pratt, D. D., the Musical club played Gerard's Colonial March, and during the programme played a selection from Gounod's Faust, both of which received much applause.

The essays and oration were given in the following order: Essay, Queen Victoria.
Essay, Judge Lindsey.
Eulogy Caroline Lindberg.
Oration, The Growth of the Postal Union.

Robert Ellis Cross.
Essay, Miles Standish.
Jean McKenzie.

in well chosen words characteristic of the president, who said that it was given not for its value but as a remembrance of the class who had dethe class briefly and appropriately.

For a leading thought he took an idea suggested by the recitation, There's Room for You Up Higher, which referred to the building of a tower, suggesting that the attempt to reach the top should never be given up, no matter how many the falls. He impressed upon their remembrance the observance of the laws and commandments of God and congratulated the school especially upon the singing this year, which was the best for a number of years, due largely to a new method which has been introduced for the past few years. One aim that he set before the class was to make it a point to remember the observance of the Academy or to whatever institutions of learning they might in future
